

Imo man stabs wife to death over infidelity

Chris Njoku, Owerri April 20, 2024

Ahorrific incident has occurred in Nekede, Owerri West Local Government Area, Imo State where an unidentified man allegedly stabbed his wife over suspicions of infidelity.

The incident came to light after a viral video showed the man attacking his wife with a knife.

According to reports, the man was alerted by a neighbor on April 10th that his wife was engaging in extramarital affair in their matrimonial home.

The husband rushed home and caught his wife with her lover in their bedroom while their six-year-old daughter was left alone in the living room.

Read Also: Tinubu appoints new Board for NAICOM

In a fit of rage, the husband attacked his wife with a knife, leaving her severely injured. Her lover was allowed to leave the scene unharmed.

Reacting to the incident yesterday, the Imo State Police Command appealed to the public, especially residents of Nekede, to come forward with any useful information.

The command's spokesperson, Henry Okoye, said: "The Imo State Police Command is aware of the video circulating on social media and wishes to state that the alleged incident has not been officially reported to the police."

However, the Commissioner of Police, CP Aboki Danjuma, has directed the State Criminal Investigation Department (SCID) to conduct a thorough investigation into this disturbing incident and ascertain the facts.

"We urge the public, particularly residents of Nekede, to report any information they may have about the incident to the nearest police station or via 08148024755. Let us work together to ensure justice prevails in this case."