

② 17-year-old boy electrocuted in Lagos

THE Police Command in Lagos State has confirmed the death of a 17-year-old boy who was electrocuted while working with his step-father at a building construction site.

The Public Relations Officer of the command, SP Benjamin Hundeyin, confirmed this to the News Agency of Nigeria (NAN) on Saturday.

Hundeyin said the mother of the boy, whose name was not given, reported the case to the Agbado Police Division on August 2, at 1.00 pm.

He said the woman reported that at about 12.30 pm on the same day, she received a phone call from her younger brother about the incident.

According to the woman, her brother said that her son followed her husband (his step-father), a welder, to build a scaffolding in a building under construction at Church Street, Alagbado.

Hundeyin said: "In the process of work, the boy stepped on life wire that was carelessly connected from an electric pole and he died on the spot.

"He was rushed to the hospital and was confirmed dead by the doctor on duty." The scene was visited by a team of detectives from the division.

"The corpse has been removed from the scene. "However, no mark of violence was seen.

"The step-father has been brought to the station for questioning.

"Investigation is ongoing," he said.
