

Police arraign man, 22, for allegedly causing death of 2-year-old boy

FOR allegedly driving recklessly and causing the death of a 2-year-old boy, the police in Lagos charged Waheed Oke, 22, before a Somolu Magistrates' Court.

The accused is facing an eight-count charge of reckless driving and driving without valid drivers' licence, among others.

Oke, however, pleaded not guilty to the charges levelled against him.

The prosecutor, ASP. Akinlabe Adegoke told the court that the defendant drove his Bedford Lorry recklessly and caused the death of one Moruf Toyeeb.

According to the prosecutor, Oke was driving on the public highway without a drivers' licence, no certificate of road worthiness and worn-out tyres.

"Oke parked on the highway for repairs without using a triangular reflector and his conduct allegedly caused a child to die," he said.

Adegoke said that the offences were committed on Oct. 26, along Olatunji St., Bariga, Lagos.

The offences, according to Adegoke, contravened Sections 7, 17, 25, 27 and 36 of the Criminal Code, as well as the traffic laws of Lagos State.

The Senior Magistrate, Mrs Bola Osunsanmi, admitted the accused to bail in the sum of 50, 000

Naira with two sureties in like sum.

The case was adjourned till Nov. 7 for trial.

Commandelem is no

*From ONWUKWE
EZERU, Abia*

THE Abia State branch Manager of Commandelem Nigeria Ltd, Mr. Sunday Onukwubiri said that the company can not be seen to have the same outlook as a wonder bank or an exchange organization as it is purely about wealth creation and job opportunities for all Nigerians.

Speaking while fielding questions from journalists in his office in Umuahia, the manager said company was established following the discovery of anti corrosive special paint by the Managing Director, king clement John Adiamiko Uwemedimo.

The discovery attracted oil producing companies who were challenged by corrosion menace and were quilting in succession including mobile Nigeria Unlimited that became the