Decomposing body of 3-yr-old girl found with missing parts

By OLUWATOYIN MALIK

THE decomposing body of a young girl, whose age was put at between two and a half and three years, has been found at Olodo area, Ibadan, Oyo State.

This was after another child of the same age had been declared missing for the past two weeks and yet to be seen.

A source told the Nigerian Tribune that upon discovery, it was noticed that the left leg and one of the hands of the girl had been cut off.

Also, part of the toes on the right leg and a part of the thigh, close the girl's private part, were also discovered missing.

The story was confirmed by the state Police Public Relations Officer (PPRO), Olabisi Okuwobi-Ilobanafor, who said the local government authorities had been contacted for the evacuation of the corpse.

She also disclosed that the mother of the other missing child had been called to identify the deceased but, according to the PPRO, the woman said the child was not hers.

Okuwobi-Ilobanafor said the police were yet to know the parents of the mutilated girl, as no one had come to claim her.
