A clash between Fulani herdsman and villagers in Alapa, Asa Local Government Area of Kwara State was said to have claimed the lives of four persons.

Unconfirmed sources claimed that one villager and three herdsman lost their lives in the mayhem.

Saturday Tribune gathered that crisis broke out on Wednesday when a herdsman allegedly killed a villager along a farm path in Alapa.

In a reprisal attack on Friday, the villagers were said to have torched the huts being inhabited by the herdsman in nearby bushes, killing three herdsman in the process.

Though efforts to get confirmation from the Kwara State Police Command's spokesman proved abortive, a police source confirmed that three bodies of the cattle rearers had been evacuated from the bushes while the remains of the villager allegedly killed on Monday were also recovered by the policemen.
