It was instant judgement for an armed robber in the early hours of Thursday, February 6 when he slipped and fell after robbing a woman and her daughter at their residence at Ayetoro Oroki area of Oyo town, Oyo State.

The armed robber, whose identity was unknown, it was learnt, invaded the residence of the woman at about 2a.m. armed with an axe and a knife.

In order to instill fear in his victims, the armed man was said to have stabbed the woman's daughter on the head with a knife, after which he collected their phones and a sum of N1,700.

In an attempt to escape, Crime Reports gathered that the fleeing robber stepped on water that had spilled on tiles and fell headlong on the ground, sustaining severe head injury.

Bearing his pains, the one-man robbery gang managed to escape into the bush where a team of policemen from Atiba Division later found him lying weakly on the ground, with blood all over his body.

It was further gathered that he was rushed to General Hospital, Oyo, where he later died.

However, all the items he stole from the woman and her daughter were recovered from him, as well as the weapons he used during the robbery.

Also, the woman's daughter was rushed to the hospital for treatment.
