Troops on patrol during the weekend dislodged a band of terrorists who were about to attack some settlements in the outskirts of Bama and Ngurosoye, Borno State.

A statement by Chris Olukolade, Director of Defense Information, said about 18 terrorists died in the encounter. Also, 16 burnt AK 47 rifles were found in the debris while 5 Pickup vehicles, 7 Golf cars and one Hillux truck were destroyed.

"A total of 75 villagers were screened and released in the course of cordon and search in the adjoining communities. The purported bomb attack on a market in the vicinity as widely reported in the media is however yet to be verified", he said.

In a related development, a total of sixteen AK47 rifles were recovered in the course of cordon and search of communities, while mop up operations are ongoing on Mandara mountains and Haraza hills.

Troops eventually overran camps in the outskirts of Gombole, Mele, Kecheri, Dufrada, Yuwe, and others around Mandara mountains and Sambisa forests after stiff resistance.

Many terrorists died in the encounter, while a soldier lost his life. Five others were wounded.

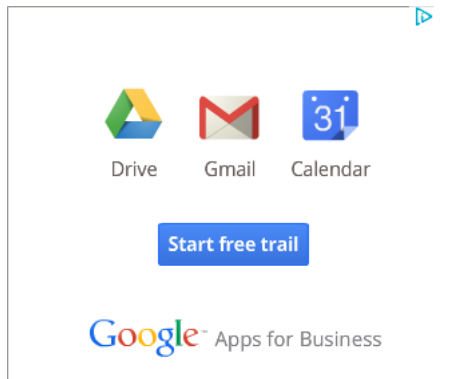

Continuing, the spokesman said the Multi-National Joint Task Force (MNJTF) has also stepped up patrols of "The air raids on some camps sited on Islands have also recorded successes in dislodging the terrorists located there.

"Cordon and search for the terrorists have been focused on thorough screening of the villagers in surrounding communities. Many terrorists have been identified and subsequently apprehended by troops in the process.

"Food items earlier seized by terrorists from the villagers are often found stockpiled along with other items such as electronics and power generators. The camps were swiftly razed by the troops."

Olukolade added that morale and fighting spirit of the troops remain noticeably high while some of the terrorists camps falling to the forces in the ongoing counter terrorists campaign have been found deserted.
