Robbers kill man, cart away money in Warri

📅 09.Jul.2014 | 0 Comments | 👤 Ebenezer Adurokiya –Warri

A stoutly-built middle-aged man was, on Tuesday, killed by suspected gunmen at Effurun near Warri, Delta State.

He was said to be returning from a first generation bank where he went to withdraw some money when he was waylaid and shot by yet-to-be identified assailants.

The incident took place at about 3:00 p.m near Okorudu junction, Effurun.

A witness said the victim engaged in a fistcuffs with his assailants over the money that was on him before he was shot and his money carted away.

It was also gathered that the assailants escaped with the victim's vehicle.

When the Nigerian Tribune arrived the scene, besides sympathisers gathered in groups bemoaning the situation, heavily armed mobile policemen were seen taking strategic positions while the lifeless body of the victim, which was later conveyed to a mortuary, was lying on the ground.

In a related development, the Nigerian Tribune gathered that about 4:00 p.m, another customer, who was returning from another branch of the first generation bank located beside a police post at Airport Junction, Effurun, was robbed of N450,000.

Delta State Police Public Relations Officer (PPRO), DSP Celestina Kalu, when contacted, said she was yet to be briefed about the incidents.

She promised to furnish the Nigerian Tribune with details later.
