A 33-year-old woman was on Tuesday morning found dead in a popular hotel (name withheld), around UNIZIK junction motor park, Awka, Anambra State, where she was said to be with her lover boy, on Monday night

In an interview, the Hotel manager, who preferred anonymity, said that the report came to him by 8.15 am, on Tuesday morning by the hotel store keeper and the receptionist, who disclosed that the deceased and the man suspected to be her lover, one Stephen Iwu, checked into Room 7 of the hotel chalet on Monday, around 6.45 pm.

He said that they told him that by the day break on Tuesday morning, one of the hotel cleaners in an attempt to clean the chalet, knocked at the unlocked room and as there was no response, she thought that the occupiers of the room had left, only to enter and discover the body of a woman on the bed, half naked.

He said that those on duty at the reception also disclosed that the man, Stephen Iwu, who came into the hotel chalet with the woman left the hotel premises early morning on Tuesday, pretending to be rushing to early morning Catholic mass, that he would be back to check out with his partner by 10 .00 a.m.

The hotel manager, said that when information about them was checked from the hotel manifest, they filled before checking-in, it was discovered that they supplied wrong information which he said, is making it difficult to trace or track down the suspect.

According to him, "there was no building in the address he gave as his office, just an empty plot, the telephone number he gave is not available, we cannot locate where the workshop he said he came for in Awka is located and his permanent resident address which he said, is in Lagos, is a football field."

The hotel manager, disclosed that the matter had been reported to the police.

The body had been transferred to Reginah Chaelli Hospital Mogue in Awka.

When contacted, the Anambra Command Police Public Relations Officer, Mr Uche Eze, said that the matter had not reached them but promised to brief the press when they get the details later.
