Men of the Ondo State Police Command in the early morning of Wednesday, killed a suspected robber, after engaging the security men in a gun duel.

The hoodlum, who met his death, said to have invaded an apartment in Ala quarters, around Oba Ile Housing Estate, Akure with others around 3.00 a.m.

It was gathered that the people of the area alerted men of the police command in the state, who swung into action and engaged the robbers in a shoot out.

According to the source, they gained entry into the residence of their victims by cutting the burglary with an iron cutter.

He said some of the hoodlums, who were hit with bullet ran away while one of them was unlucky and was killed during the operation .

The state Police Public Relations Officer (PPRO), Wole Ogodo, who confirmed the development, said his men received a distress call around 3.00 a.m from a woman around Ala, in Oba Ile and mobilised to the scene of the incident.

Ogodo said the armed men engaged the policemen in gun battle for over 30 minutes before taking to their heels but said one of the armed robbers was killed while others escaped with bullet wounds,

He said a locally-made pistol, cutlass and other dangerous weapons were recovered from the scene of the incident.

According to Ogodo, the robbers had been terrorising members of Oba-Ile community in Akure North Local Government Area for a long time.

The PPRO urged the people of the state to always be ready to furnish the police with useful information, saying his men are ready to combat crime in the state.
