Botched abortion: Doctor charged for killing pregnant woman

AYOMIDE OWONIBI ODEKANYIN

A 35-year-old medical doctor, Edeye Monday, has been charged before a Yaba Magistrates' Court for allegedly killing a 22-year-old pregnant woman, Tolani Aderoju.

According to the police, Edeye injected Ms. Aderoju with some unknown drugs, while attempting to abort her pregnancy. The police further said that Ms. Aderoju's mother, in her complaint, said her daughter had informed her that she was pregnant for one Mufutau Alonge.

She alleged that Mr. Alonge had taken her daughter to Edeye's private clinic for an abortion.

After injecting Ms. Aderoju with drugs, Edeye who could not terminate the pregnancy, decided to rush her to another hospital where she eventually died.

The presiding magistrate, Adekorede Ajibade, however, noted that a murder case had been established against the accused.
