The police in Lagos State, on Wednesday, killed five suspected armed robbers and arrested one with bullets wounds.

Police sources told the News Agency of Nigeria (NAN) in Ikeja, the state capital, that the suspects engaged policemen from Elemoro Division, Ajah in Ibeju-Lekki Local Government Area in a shootout where they were killed.

He said that five of them were killed on the spot and one injured by bullets was arrested.

"The police in Elemoro got information that the suspects were operating at Abule Parapo, opposite Awoyaya in Elemoro area of Ajah around 2.00 a.m.

"The suspects engaged the police in a shootout as soon as they saw them. Two locally made double barrel shotguns, one cutlass and iron cutter were recovered from them.

"The gang had been terrorising residents of Ajah, robbing and raping women," the source said.

NAN reported that the corpses of the dead and the injured suspects were brought to the Lagos State Police Command headquarters, Ikeja, at about 12.15 p.m.

The operatives of the Special Anti-Robbery Squad (SARS) have taken over the case file from the Divisional Police Officer at Elemoro, SP Sani Limawa, for further investigation.

When contacted, the command's spokesman, DSP Joseph Ofor, said he had yet to get the details from the division as of press time.
