

Please fish out our son's killers, family cries out to Oyo police

June 5, 2016

Written by: Oluwatoyin Malik

POLICE detectives from the Homicide section of the Criminal Investigation Department in Oyo State Police Command are currently working on clues that could enable them unravel the mystery surrounding the death of 38-year-old Fasasi Wasiu, whose body was found along Konko Road, near Igangan in Ibarapa Local Government Area of the state on Saturday, May 13, 2016. This is just as the deceased's family members cry out to the police not to allow their son's death to go unresolved.

Some hours before his body was discovered, Sunday Tribune learnt that he left his home at Ayete community at about 5 p.m. on Friday, May 12, after receiving a call summoning him to attend to an important matter at a nearby Konko community. He did not return home until his body was discovered along the road where it was probably dumped, with deep cutlass injuries which were suggestive of the method his killers adopted to eliminate him.

His family members are, however, eager to know the reason(s) behind the killing; whether it was for ritual purpose or a business agreement that went wrong. They appealed to the Commissioner of Police in Oyo State, Leye Oyebade, to help in exposing their son's killer(s) and bring them to justice.

Before his gruesome murder, Sunday Tribune gathered that Wasiu was a vibrant young man who did his job as a transporter with vigour, taking goods and farm produce to Lagos and other states. According an elder brother of the deceased, Mr Musa Fasasi, "my brother was killed by unknown persons in Ibarapa North Local Area of Oyo State on May 12. The matter was reported at Ayete police station and it has been transferred to the State Criminal Investigation Department for further investigation.”

The elder Fasasi disclosed that the deceased was found at a spot along Konko road the following morning after he left home.