TWO policemen were, on Tuesday afternoon, feared killed and one other injured by gunmen suspected to be robbers in Surulere area.

The state police command confirmed the shooting incident but insisted that the policemen did not die and that they were as of Tuesday evening, responding to treatment.

The yet-to-be identified policemen were reportedly, until the incident, attached to Itire police station.

The policemen were said to have impounded a tricycle and were negotiating with him when the armed men attacked them.

Nigerian Tribune gathered that the hoodlums, who drove an unmarked Toyota salon car, shot sporadically to scare away people.

A police source, who pleaded anonymity, told the Nigerian Tribune that "the policemen were on duty around Olufemi Street in Masha Bus Stop area of Surulere when the incident happened."

He added that the robbers might have thought the policemen were waiting for them and thereby opened fire as soon as they sighted them.

The image maker in charge of the state police command, Dolapo Badmos, while speaking with the Nigerian Tribune, said the police were on the trail of the gunmen.

"Some hoodlums opened fire on our officers who were on duty at Masha bus stop today. The officers are responding to treatment," she said.
