

Suspected sea pirates kill policeman in Lagos

OLALEKAN OLABULO

A yet-to-be identified set of gunmen, early Tuesday, killed a mobile police officer between Igando in Lagos State and Totowu in Igbesa area of Ogun State.

The policeman, simply identified as Wasiu, a sergeant, was until his death, attached to Mopol 43 unit in Lagos State.

The remains of the deceased policeman was later deposited at Crest Hospital, on Isuti Road, in Igando area of Lagos State.

The gunmen, suspected to be sea pirates, had reportedly attacked the deceased policeman and shot him repeatedly.

The case was later reported at Igando divisional police station, where investigations had commenced into the death.

The image maker in charge of the of the state police command, Dolapo Badmos, insisted that the incident occurred in Ogun State.

Badmos, however, pointed out that the police in Lagos State would investigate the circumstances surrounding the killing of the policeman.