

Like they say, a clear conscience fears no accusation.

Dr Ibe wanted for murder –Police

Sunday Tribune, after listening to Dr Ibe's narration, visited the homicide section of the Force Criminal Investigation Department, Force CID, Abuja.

The spokesman of the Force CID, CSP Chike Nwabuwa, told Sunday Tribune that Ibe was one of the prime suspects in the alleged murder of Mrs Katherine Okenrengwo, a deputy Director at the Federal Capital Development Authority (FCDA), Abuja on December 30, 2014.

He said that two of the suspects involved in the alleged murder had been charged to court and remanded in Owerri prison, while two of the suspects were still at large.

The force CID spokesman told Sunday Tribune that Dr Ibe jumped bail and during each attempt to arrest her, she feigned illness and harassed everyone, including the police and used abusive language on them.

According to him, the police were making frantic efforts to apprehend the other culprits, while the others were charged with conspiracy and murder.

He said that the late deputy director was a half sister to Dr Ibe and that she had travelled to celebrate Yuletide festivities, during which a fight ensued as a result of inheritance of their grandfather's property.

In the ensuing melee, the police alleged that Dr Ibe carried the bookshelf in the sitting room and hit Mrs Okenrengwo and she fell in the pool of her own blood and before they could get to the hospital she died.

The police claimed she resisted arrest and that nobody is harassing or intimidating her, but all they want is for her to come and state her own side of the case which she has bluntly refused to do and has instead, resorted to blackmailing them.

"Any time we go to look for her, she pretends to be ill, but has written more than five petitions to the Inspector General of Police, and all we want is for her to come and tell us all she knows about the problem."
