

Man kills 35yr-old wife in Anambra for unknown reason

By Michael Ovat - Awka on August 20, 2018

A middle age man has reportedly killed his 35 years old wife in Nnewi, a commercial city of Anambra State, over the unknown issue.

The man was identified as Chinasa Nnorom, while the deceased wife was identified as Juliet Ogbodo.

It was gathered that the incident which happened at Nnewi, was an altercation between the two birds, that led to a fight, as a result, the wife started vomiting blood and foam coming out of her mouth.

TribuneOnline learnt that the victim was rushed to Ikedife hospital Otolu, Nnewi, where she was confirmed dead by a medical doctor and deposited at the morgue for autopsy.

ALSO READ: Outrage in Ekiti over demolition of Ayefele's radio station by Oyo govt

Meanwhile, the scene of the incident was visited by Police detectives attached to the CPS Nnewi division, where the suspect was arrested.

When contacted the Command PPRO, SP Haruna Mohammed, who confirmed the incident said the suspect has been arrested and the case is under investigation after which the suspect would be charged to Court for prosecution.

YOU MAY ALSO LIKE:

Revealed: How Daura planned to install new NASS leaders

More facts have emerged on the role played by the sacked Director-General, Department of State Services (DSS), Mr Lawal Daura, on the botched attempt to forcefully effect leadership change in the National Assembly and how the plan was hatched...READ MORE