40-yr-old kills man for allegedly sleeping with his wife inside bush in Niger

ADELOWO OLADIPO - MINNA

OPERATIVES of the Niger State Police Command have arrested one Joseph Abanda (40) for allegedly killing a man, Umaru Yakubu (50), who he claimed was having an affair with his wife.

Nigerian Tribune learnt that the suspect had accused the victim of regularly taking his wife to a bush near their house, where he made love to her.

It was gathered that the suspect was arrested following a complaint to the police by one Abdullahi Isah of Kwagana village, in Paikoro Local Government Area of the state, on Wednesday, November 14, that Yakubu went to Adanu village market in the council area about three days earlier and had not returned home.

On receipt of the complaint, a team of police detectives attached to Kaffin-Koro Division, began investigating the disappearance.

The investigation then led to the arrest of the suspect, Abanda, of Beni Village in Munya Local Government Area of the state.

Nigerian Tribune gathered that during further investigation, the suspect confessed to have attacked and killed the deceased after he caught him having sexual intercourse with his wife in a bush beside their house.

The state Police Public Relations Officer (PPRO), DSP Muhammed Abubakar, confirmed the incident in a chat with the Nigeria Tribune, on Tuesday, in Minna, the state capital.

Abubakar said the suspect would soon be arraigned in court for prosecution at the conclusion of investigation into the matter.
