

Suspected Fulani Bandits Rob Commuters On Ife-Ibadan Expressway, Kill Osun Civil Servant

By Oluwole Ige - Osogbo On Jun 12, 2019

LATEST NEWS

METRO

Share

Suspected Fulani bandits on Wednesday morning robbed commuters along Ife -Ibadan expressway, killing an Osun State civil servant, identified as Mr. Adenipekun Ademiju.

Ademiju, popularly called Okere, a staff of Atakumosa West local government of the state boarded a private vehicle at Osu, on his way to Ibadan before they were attacked around Ikire, in Irewole local government area.

An eyewitness informed the Nigerian Tribune that Ademiju was hit by the bullet as the robbers shot indiscriminately at vehicles to forcefully stop them on the expressway.

ALSO READ

Three suspects arrested over clash in Ifewara community

Kidnappers collected N1.8m ransom before releasing abducted...

Again, kidnappers abduct another two persons in Osun

ALSO READ: NASS elections: Okorie congratulates Gbajabiamila, Lawan

He said “the man killed by Fulani herdsmen who normally rob on this road, two of them were in the car, I think the bullets missed the target, who is the driver of the car before killing the man.

“The robbers dropped the corpse on the highway and went away with the car.”

When contacted, the Police Public Relations Officer (PPRO) of Osun State Police command, Mrs. Folasade Odoro confirmed the incident but said the Police were still investigating the matter.

 Text Links

Mr. Adenipekun Ademiju

Mrs. Folasade Odoro

Osun State civil servant

Police Public Relations Officer (PPRO) of Osun State Police command

Suspected Fulani bandits

Share

PREV POST

NASS elections: Okorie congratulates
Gbajabiamila, Lawan

NEXT POST

Buhari exposes Nigerians behind insecurity