A member of the National Youth Service Corps (NYSC) serving in Bebeji Local Government Area of Kano State, has allegedly beaten a young Almajiri boy to death. This incident, which led to tension in the area, caused policemen to barricade the area to prevent residents from attacking the corps member.

The incident, according to a source occurred on Thursday evening, when the boy was said to have run with others into the corps members' lodge to collect fruits from the residents, who had developed the gesture of giving out fruits to children in the area.

But in his haste to get his own share of the fruits before others, the boy was said to have collided with the corps member. According to the source, “this provoked him (corps member) and caused him to beat the boy, from which he collapsed and died in the process.”

However, while speaking on the issue, the Public Relations Officer of Bebeji Transformation for Change, Shehu Suleiman, said the policemen had barricaded the area to prevent residents of the area from attacking the corps member.

He further said that the policemen had taken the corps member away, while the boy’s corpse was taken to a hospital in Bebeji. When contacted through the telephone, Kano state NYSC Coordinator, Alhaji Ladan Baba, confirmed that the report had reached his desk.

He, however, disclosed that his officials had moved to Bebeji to further investigate the incident.
