One person dies as fire razes six buildings in Osun

Oluwole Ige | Osogbo

THERE was pandemonium in the early hours of Friday at Modakeke community of Osun State when fire razed six buildings, culminating in the death of one person, Nigerian Tribune authoritatively gathered

Though the actual cause of the fire incident could not be ascertained as of the time of filing this report, credible source informed our correspondent that men of Osun State Fire Service arrived at the scene located around Ita Merin in Modakeke at around 7.00pm on Thursday.

According to the source, the inferno raged till about 12.45am on Friday, destroying properties worth millions of naira.

While three of the buildings were completely razed by the fire, the other three were partially burnt.

When contacted, the administrative officer of Osun State Fire Service, Mr Fatai Aremu confirmed the incident, saying "the cause of the fire was not known yet."

He said "six buildings were affected and they are all storey buildings. Three were partially affected, while three were completely razed down.

"The buildings were located at Ita Merin, Modakeke. One life was lost. The deceased was said to be a girl.
