

Wife knocks husband to death with shoe heel in Delta

•As another lady is pushed to death from 5-storey building

Ebenezer Adurokiya | Warri

AN angry wife has struck her husband to death on Saturday, in Warri, Warri Local Government Area of Delta State.

The yet-to-be identified woman reportedly struck her husband to death with the heel of her shoe at Ugbuwangue, an Itsekiri community in Warri.

It was gathered that the incident happened at about 11:00a.m, close to the community's townhall.

Further reports say the deceased, identified as Etsebanghanrolghomi, was a father of two and member of the Ugbuwangue community executive.

Sunday Tribune learnt that the woman had approached her husband where he sat and struck him in the back of his head from behind.

The husband reportedly fainted and began to foam from his mouth and died before he could reach the hospital.

Spokesperson of the Delta State Police Command, Onome Onovwakpoyeya, said the police were yet to receive complaint from the deceased's family.

Meanwhile, the Police Command in Anambra has arrested one Nonso Eze, 37, for allegedly pushing a lady to her death from his apartment on the fifth floor of a five-storey building.

Police Public Relations Officer (PPRO) for the state police command, CSP Haruna Mohammed, disclosed this in a statement on Saturday in Awka.

Mohammed said the incident occurred at about 3am on Saturday at Orakwe Close, Fizzle, Awada-Obosi, in Idemili North Local Government Area of the state.