GUNMEN on Wednesday evening disrupted an interactive session between Isuofia youths in Anambra State and a former governor of the Central Bank of Nigeria (CBN) and aspirant of the All Progressives Grand Alliance (APGA) in the November 6 governorship election in the state, Professor Chukwuma Soludo, at the town's civic centre.

Nigerian Tribune learnt that three policemen attached to Professor Soludo were reportedly shot dead during the attack, while many of his supporters are missing.

The National Secretary of All Soludo Support Groups and the Convener of Youths Earnestly Seek Soludo (YESS), Dr Nelson Obinna Omenugha, who confirmed the attack in a telephone interview with Nigerian Tribune, said "yes, there is serious stampede now in Afuzo area of Isuofia, which is in Aguata Local Government Area of the state."

Omenugha said three of Soludo's security details were killed during the attack.

He also said the state's Commissioner for Public Utilities, Engineer Emeka Ezenwanne, was also abducted by the hoodlums.

Omenugha condoled with the families of the victims for the loss, just as he asked

God to grant them eternal rest.

Soludo, who is from Isuofia, and a leading aspirant in the forthcoming governorship election, is said to be safe.

However, as of the time of filing this report, his whereabouts remain unknown.

When contacted, the state's Commissioner of Police, Sunday Kuryas, while confirming the attack on Soludo to Channels Television, explained that the details were still sketchy.

He said reports from his officers in the area indicated that some gunmen stormed Isuofia town hall when Professor Soludo was having a meeting with youths of the community.
