FORMER governor of Delta State, Dr Emmanuel Uduaghan has called on security agents to fish out the killers of Itsekiri leader, Pa Joseph Ayomike and his wife, Dr Mrs Chiyere Ayomike, who were killed in their GRA residence in Warri, Delta State.

The couple's mutilated and decomposing bodies, it will be recalled, were discovered inside one of the rooms in their residence on Monday morning after security operatives broke in to unravel the cause of the unpleasant odour oozing out of the house.

Saddened by the fate that befell the octogenarian, Uduaghan, in a statement by his Media Assistant, Monoyo Edon, condoled with the family, but charged security agents to thoroughly dig deep into the circumstances surrounding the murder of the couple and apprehend the culprits.

The Itsekiri-born medical doctor who wondered what could be the offence of a leader he described as very "quiet" to have been so cruelly murdered, further called for a speedy investigation into the saga.

"Dr Emmanuel Uduaghan, the immediate past governor of Delta State is heart-wrenched over the barbaric murder of Pa Joseph Ayomike and his dear wife, Dr (Mrs) Chinyere Ayomike whose corpses were found in their Warri GRA residence in the morning of Monday, June 28, 2021.

"Dr Uduaghan whose wife, Mrs Roli Sheila Uduaghan is a niece of the late Pa Ayomike, has tasked security agencies to launch a rapid and thorough investigation into the murder of the founder of Warri Choral Society (WCS) and his wife who, until their death, was a senior lecturer at the Delta State University, Abraka.
