An 18-year-old young man in Bauchi on Friday allegedly killed his elder brother following a domestic argument between them.

The young man, Abdulrahman Sulaiman, allegedly stabbed his elder brother for taking his shorts and wearing them, thereby irking him (younger brother) as narrated by neighbours of the family who reside around Games Village area of Bauchi metropolis.

Reports had it that all efforts by both parents and others to pacify the enraged young man proved difficult as he refused to be pacified. Rather he took a sharp knife and stabbed his unsuspecting elder brother.

The elder brother was rushed to the Abubakar Tafawa Balewa University Teaching Hospital (ATBUTH), Bauchi where he was confirmed dead after losing so much blood from the wound.

It was reported that their father fainted on hearing of the incident and had to be revived by sympathisers who thronged the house on hearing of the unfortunate incident.

Umar Sanda said that the young man allegedly stabbed his brother after a heated argument over a domestic issue at the games village area of Bauchi metropolis.

The Police Commissioner added that full scale investigation has commenced on the incident after which the young man will be charged to court for prosecution.

All efforts to get the father or any close relation to speak on the incident failed as nobody amongst those contacted was ready to talk, promising however to speak after the burial of the deceased.
