GUNMEN suspected to be kidnappers have killed one Fwangshak Plang, identified as a brother to the Special Adviser to the Governor of Plateau State, Mr Diket Plank, and equally abducted his step mother and a young lady in Pankshin Local Government Area of the state over the weekend.

A source close to the family of the deceased disclosed that the gunmen, who were eight in number, stormed the residence of Fwangshak Plank at Takas village in the early hours of Saturday and kidnapped the governor's aide's step mother and a young lady living with her.

The source further explained that the late Plank, who lived in the same apartment with the aged woman suddenly noticed some strange movements within the premises and came out to find out what was happening, but was shot at close range by the kidnappers who were about escaping.

He stated: "The kidnappers forced themselves into the premises and abducted the aged woman and a young lady who were in their sleep and shot a young man identified as a brother to the governor's aide while trying to escape with their captives.
