A farmer, Unaha Enesi, has been found killed in his farm in Ago Panu, Upenmen-Owo, community at Owo/Ikare road in Owo Local Government Area of Ondo State.

The farmer, who was killed while working on his farm, was beheaded by his assailants who allegedly took away his head.

The development caused apprehension in the area while farmers from the village are now scared of going to their farms.

Enesi, who hailed from Kogi State, was believed to have been kidnapped when he failed to return from the farm before a search party discovered his headless body in his farm.

A source explained "it was the search party that discovered his body after he failed to return home from the farm.

"We only found his corpse in the farm, he has been killed and his head taken away by the killers."

One of his kinsmen, Ibrahim Adeiza, said the killing of Enesi had caused panic among farmers in the community.

He said the farmers were apprehensive and afraid of going to the farm for fear of being killed.

Also speaking, the chairman of Owo Local Government, Chief Samuel Adegbegi, who visited the community, said the criminals would soon be brought to book.

He assured the residents that adequate security would be provided for the people and their property, urging them to report any strange movement in the area to security operatives in the area.
