A chief magistrates' court sitting in Ibadan has remanded two suspects at the Agodi Correctional Centre for the alleged murder of two persons in Igboho town in Oorelope Local Government Area of Oyo State.

The suspects' names were given as Kareem Tajudeen Baale and Ismail Jamiu.

They were arraigned on a three-count charge bordering on conspiracy and murder, malicious damage and threat to life and conspiracy assault occasioning harm.

The suspects, in one of the charges, were alleged to have conspired and killed an old man, Mr Oyedokun Jimoh, and one other person, Wasiu

Jimoh, on their farmland in Odoowo village, Igboho.

In other charges, they were alleged of malicious damage and threat to life and conspiracy assault occasioning harm.

However, they pleaded not guilty to the charges as read.

The Chief Magistrate, O. O. Ogunkanmi, ordered them to be remanded at the correctional centre for alleged murder, while granting them bail for the other two charges.

In a similar case, one Rasheed Quazeem was earlier remanded in prison for alleged murder and other offences.

The two cases have been adjourned till August 1.
