A 27-year-old Libya returnee, Shakirat Ojo, who reportedly became mentally unstable has been beaten to death by his father in Lagos State.

Police preliminary investigations revealed that the father, Kamoro Ojo, beat her daughter to death and secretly buried her in a shallow grave.

The police have since arrested the father, who is now being detained at the State Criminal Investigations Department (SCID), Panti, Yaba, Lagos.

It was gathered that Shakirat just returned from Libya, where she reportedly spent about five years.

The image maker in charge of the Lagos State Police command, Benjamin Hundey, confirmed the killing of Shakirat to newsmen during a press briefing on Monday

"On April 3, at about 8:00p.m, a distress call was received by Okomaiko Divisional Police.

When detectives from the police station visited the scene, it was gathered that the incident occurred on March 26.

During investigation, it was revealed that Shakirat, who returned from Libya, was allegedly beaten to death by her father, who also buried her secretly in a shallow grave within his compound at Afromedia area of Ojo.

"Following the report, a team, comprising of homicide and scene of crime detectives, visited the area. The shallow grave was located and the corpse was exhumed and taken to a public morgue for autopsy.
