An assistant resident pastor, Mr. David Idunuoluwa, working with Living Faith International Church, a.k.a. Winners' Chapel, has been shot dead in Uyo, Akwa Ibom State.

Idunuoluwa was killed by a gang of four men on Wednesday around 8:30pm.

Until his murder, Idunuoluwa was with Living Faith International Church along Ikot Edido, Uyo, Akwa Ibom State.

According to a member of the church, Idunuoluwa had left the church around 6 pm and drove in his car to the Ibom International Airport, hoping to pick his wife who had just returned from Jerusalem.

The killers were said to have trailed the couple from the airport down to Uyo, the state capital, where they blocked their car and shot at the pastor severally.

Our correspondent gathered that the gunmen shot at him on the head, took some of the items the wife brought from Jerusalem and took to their heels.

Also, gunmen killed two persons along the University of Uyo, Ikpa road, at about 8:15pm on Wednesday.

Though, the identity of the victims could not be ascertained as at the time of filing this report, the State Commissioner of Police, Mr. Sani Maaji, confirmed the incidents.

"They shot some people along Ikpa road but nothing was taken from them. For Idunuoluwa, it is true but no arrest has been made so far. We are still on the trail of those that killed him," Magaji said.

The killing of Idunuoluwa and two others had increased to four the number of persons gunmen killed between December 31, 2010 and January 20, 2011.

Meanwhile, the Akwa Ibom State Police Command on Thursday paraded six suspected killers of the House of Assembly aspirant in Akwa Ibom State, Dr. Joseph Akpanakpudo.

Akpanakpudo was reportedly shot dead on the New Year's Eve in Uyo, the Akwa Ibom State capital.

The deceased, until his death, was seeking Peoples Democratic Party's ticket for the Mkpato Enin State Constituency.

Parading the suspect at the police Headquarters, Ikot Akpan-Abia, the state Commissioner of Police, Mr. Sani Magaji, said that the suspect had confessed to killing Akpanakpudo along Nwaniba Road, Uyo, Akwa Ibom State on December 31, 2010.

Speaking with our correspondent, one of the suspects, Emmanuel Akpan, told THE PUNCH that one of his friends, called Bigboy killed Akpanakpudo.

Akpan said, "I struggled for the gun with Bigboy not to shoot the man but in the process he pulled the trigger and shot him after which we ran away. I don't know the man will die. I don't even know the man. It is Bigboy that called me to carry him on a bike."

The suspect claimed that nobody contracted them to kill the medical doctor, adding that he never knew Bigboy had a gun while they were on a motorbike.

Other people paraded by the police were, Uduak Effiong, Unyime Okon, Nnamso Effiong, Lawrence Joe, and a female, Salome Browson.

The police boss said that the command was currently on the trail of the fleeing kingpin, Bigboy.

Shortly after the murder of Akpanakpudo, the police arrested six political stalwarts from Mkpato Enin State Constituency. They are currently facing trial over the murder of the medical doctor.

- Jonathan should humble himself and call upon the Almighty God to have mercy on the land, he should stand in the gap as a leader for Nigeria, just as Esther stood in the gap for her people because, the blood of innocent souls will soon begin to cry for vengeance against the nation. Many innocent blood has been spilled in this nation called Nigeria. Haiti, Congo, as nations are experiencing hard times because a lot of innocent blood has been spilled.

- i express my sympathy to the family of the pastor that was killed, he is not dead, because he is with his GOD that appointed him to be a pastor, we should know that many are called but few are chosen, he was one of the chosen people, he will not be buried, but he will be planted for the creator RIP.
