Soldiers kill businessman in Mushin during argument

January 6, 2012 by Eniola Akinkuotu 243 Comments

A young man, Niyi Ehindero, was on Thursday allegedly shot dead by soldiers attached to Operation MESA Unit on Bada Street in Mushin area of Lagos.

Eyewitnesses told our correspondent that the soldiers shot Ehindero at close range in his car, when they went to the area to disperse hoodlums who were engaged in a fierce battle.

A friend of the deceased, who craved anonymity, said, "Ehindero and I just came to Bada Street to see a friend when we heard some gunshots.

"I ran into a nearby house but Ehindero was not fast enough. Eight soldiers ordered him to come out of his car but he argued with them. Suddenly, one of them shot him in the crotch and he died immediately."

Hundreds of people gathered to see KUSH'S corpse, which was lying in a grey Toyota Highlander Sports Utility Van with number plate Lagos FF605 KRD.

Our correspondent learnt that another man identified simply as Wasiu was also shot in the leg by the soldiers.

The prolonged violence in the area recurred on Thursday as two factions of area boys engaged in a supremacy battle using guns and all manners of weapons.

It was learnt that many people sustained injuries while properties were vandalised in the violence which lasted for several hours.

The Fadeyi end of Ikorodu Road was littered with broken bottles and expended shells as well as bloodstains. Shops were locked and residents remained in their homes as the hoodlums took over the entire area.

The soldier, who headed the operation, and identified himself simply as Matthew, a Second Lieutenant, however told our correspondent that the victim was killed by the hoodlums.

He said, "We were on patrol when we realised that hoodlums had killed and injured many people. We have however arrested two of the hoodlums.

"The fight is a supremacy battle fuelled by thugs who wanted to control businesses in the area. I cannot say who started the fight but I know that because Lawani and Kadiri streets are economically buoyant, thugs from other areas always come to fight them.

"The sad thing is that innocent people either sustained injuries or get killed when they start their fight."

At 6pm, policemen attached to the Alakara Police Station were seen conveying the corpse to a patrol vehicle.

A resident who craved anonymity said, "He was killed by the soldiers. If the military authority is willing to investigate, all the residents are ready to testify. An autopsy will reveal that the bullet that killed him emanated from the guns of military men.”

It was learnt that Ehindero was in his 30s and was a contractor. He had two big trucks, which he used to supply sugar and rice to traders in Mushin.

He was married but had no child yet. He lived at 5, Oguntade Street, Maryland and had just returned from the United Kingdom on a business trip shortly before Christmas.

Ehindero, who was killed by OP MESA 33, was said to be a popular businessman in Mushin area where most of his customers are.

Hundreds of people gathered at the scene of his murder and rained curses on his killer and asked the Lagos State Government to investigate his murder and brought the killers to book.

A man, who identified himself simply as Olawale, said, “How could they murder such a young and unarmed man like that in a broad day light? Even if they asked him to alight from his vehicle and he refused, is that enough to kill him?

“If they are interested in restoring peace in the area, they should have gone after the hoodlums who have been causing mayhem in the area for a long time. It is unfortunate that such a promising man should be unjustly killed in his prime like that. It is high time government restored law and order in the area.”

When contacted, the spokesperson for the state police command, Mr. Samuel Jinadu, denied any violence in Mushin.

“Don’t go and write what did not happen. There is no violence anywhere,” he said.

And I agree in affirmative, and say Amen! The blood of Ehindero will continue and ever hunt the families and generation of the soldier. The vehicle the tax payers bought for them is being used to kill innocent tax payers, exhorting money from the citizens, and harassing them with their heinous voices on our roads.

The sad thing is that most of the gbana boys who are been backed by gbana godfather always escape justice because of their powerful gbana godfather that uses them to cause confusion. May God save our lives & souls from the government by the gbanites, from the gbanites and for the gbanaites.

My OPINION now is that NIGERIANS now should start a mass VOICE and PUBLIC PROTEST REVOLUTION against all unjust killings by ARMY, POLICE, NAVY, AIRFORCE AND SECURITY AGENCY, we must all come with a voice to protest the killing of NIYI EHINDERO so that the Government will be awoken to this barbaric incident... Government need to investigate who did this. that's the next step,This country is something else. WHICH WAY NIGERIA WHICH WAY WE GO .. was it not the death of a young arab street hawker that cause a NATION to bow to the voice of the Masses..???

Lagos State Government in whose jurisdiction this cold murder happened should please take this up and the killer soldier brought to justice. GEJ poor decision is taking lots of toll on innocent Nigerians across this nation, for announcing fuel increases on New Year day and on worship day – Sunday and leaving Boko Haram killers unattended to. Whether he reverses this or not with his petroleum and finance ministers / advisers, the blood of innocent Nigerians killed will haunt them all directly or indirectly forever and they should consider himself dead politically.

The 2Lt who led the so-called peace-keeping team should be court-martialed and if found incapable of commanding his team, should together with the soldier who shot the young man (this could be detected through analysis of the bullet found in Ehindero's body) should be summarily dismissed from the Nigerian Army and jailed or even hanged; for if you leave their type to roam the street, they are already mad dogs and portends danger to the citizenry. Ehindero may have been killed by bullet purchased with his tax and those hired with his tax to protect him and Nigeria. Lt Gen Iherijeka, CAS; please personally wade into this particular killing and let the public glaringly see that justice is done. It appears there are many ignorants in the Armed Forces of Nigeria, talk more or less of the Nigeria Police. Cant they see how brilliant US SEAL is? Young energetic youths who vow to revenge evil done their country. Here, all our security agents are good at; is suppress and kill those they ought to protect. This is barbaric!

It 2Lt Mathew is found to be an NDA-commissioned Officer, then Nigeria may have well say bye-bye to any hope in our security details. This is becos, with the zeal of value impacted by NDA, academic and military, for an officer to now be incapable of properly briefing his men on such exercise is a waste of resources sunk into his training.

What you are saying is an expression of general cowardice that has gripped our country Nigeria for ever. Nobody is willing to stand up and fight. Even when one does, that person, just as did this innocent young citizen, gets killed and no one stands up and asks why. We must resist this pressure and fight back. This is not time to pray and wait for our good God to come and deliver Nigeria, it is time to stand up and be FREE.

However, the Lagos State Govt needs to do something about series of clash by cult rival groups in this area, while NOT supporting killing of any innocent citizen by soldier/police, citizens must PLEASE avoid arguing with an armed person [in Nigeria], it is just like arguing/negotiating with an armed robber, because dead men don't talk. Nigeria isn't sick. It is a beautiful country. It is the Mother of all Nations! The people of Africa and Nigeria are nobel people, defenders of life. They love their babies and they keep them. They don't kill a child in the safest place in the world, like so many others do. The evil that is attacking Africa and Nigeria is attacking it because it is loved by God. God is letting this happen because he respects our free will but also, because we are being cowards. This is not a war against our brothers who are created in the image and likeness of God.. no matter who they are. Don't let evil confound you. It is a phantom. The victory is won already, so go claim it. This is a war, not against our brothers and sisters, it is against principalities and dominions, thrones and dark spirits in the high places. PRAY and claim your identity as powerful sons and daughters of the Most High God... call on the angels, on your heavenly Mother, on the blood of the Redeemer... believe in who you are and ASK your heavenly Father and you will see the spirits of darkness that murder and lie retreat in confusion... and peace settle over this land of Eden! If you fight and kill your brothers, you empower the evil one to bring more evil to your land. Take your sword of Truth and your shield of Faith and open the floodgates of grace, love, peace! 'Trust' every human being. It is difficult not to fight a just war but the war you fight is in the heavens, no among your brothers and sisters. Plant peace, one seed at a time. Pray for your president and pray for strong leadership. Pray for the Boko Haram that they will discover the wisdom of charity and compassion. Bury the guns! You will never stop the shedding of blood by shedding blood. Pray Pray Pray. God bless Nigeria! God bless Africa.

@Michael,

You are a such a joker !! Your comment is an example of a major problem ruining this country. Instead of preaching tangible action based on reality, you are comfortable with spewing gross inaction using religion and unbiblical fantasy as a front for your weakness, helplessness and cowardice. I am a christian too but I don't believe in lying down and begging for divine beings to materialise and solve my problems. Trust me, a lazy, toothless coward in church is still a lazy toothless coward and I wonder what you'll be spewing if your family was torn apart during a bomb attack up north.

This weak-minded attitude of yours is the primary reason why Nigerians are adept at accepting rubbish treatment that is unacceptable in most sane countries. It is also the main reason why christians would let illiterates continually hack them to death for decades with no significant repercussions .

I feel sorry for our joke-of-a-country that is clearly overrun with religious businesses that rake in billions on the heads of the poor/desperate using a tithing loophole and the promise of prosperity, hope and heaven as blinkers. I feel even sorrier for jokers like you Michael that have obviously been raised to be docile castrated cattle waiting for slaughter.

God help you and Nigeria. We need lions with real balls.

Going through the comments of some persons I feel very sad how people reasoning faculty works. While calling Nigeria useless, disgrace and what have you. Would you have rather prefer to be born in Iraq or Afghanistan. I'm proud to be a Nigerian.

In the story above, I think the problem is our leaders who have in the past watch such happened without any serious drastic action against the officer. You might read on the pages of the papers tomorrow that the officer has be detained and that ends the whole story. Any case that has been fought justly in this nation is for those who have people fighting for them. If Ehindero has nobody to fight the case, then, it becomes a closed chapter – the masses have no case in Nigeria no matter the level of vitimization, only the rich has.

CAN you even imagine Mr. Samuel Jinadu (spoke person for state Police) saying that there is no violence in Mushin – it means he is not on top of his job since he doesn't know what is happening in his domain.

Conclusively, the authority has to wake up to their responsibilities because this issue of officer killing and unarmed civilian is becoming too rampart and mind you, this got nothing to do with the SUBSIDY removal.

Sad as stories like these, the average Nigerian must begin to be unbiased in judgment if what we truly seek is justice..Haven't we all been guilty of intentionally resisting authority and maybe even acted rather aggressively towards uniformed officers? Maybe its because we see them as low class, poverty driven, and hardly educated. Let us remind ourselves that no country has faultless security personnel, look what happened just this past week in the US, but still the average citizen doesn't challenge authority just for the sake of it. Let's begin to show respect, and we'll be amazed at how graciously the honor is returned to us

While you make excuses for the worst kind of lawlessness by state armed goons and insult us further by asking us to “show respect” (whatever the hell that means), the real problem remains unsolved.

Ehindero did not have to die. There was no reason for him to. For you come here and justify (and yes, that is what you are doing) his killing is an insult to all decent people everywhere. Please put your education to good use and stand up for what's right.

Human-right organisations should please take this up, this is not a difficult thing to prove, all we need to do is to extract the bullet from the body and can immediately detect the type of gun used, the military has a peculiar type of gun they use. Secondly, it is highly irresponsible for the soldiers to claim that they met a man shot in his car and left him there, how were they sure He was dead, they could have rushed him to the nearest hospital for the doctors to see if anything could be done.

Negotiating with the menical Boko Haram group should not come to play...the govt should be serious by deploying its resouces and energy towards protecting the Nigerian state against any external and internal aggression.SSS and other security agents should foil attacks before they are carried out,i believe that should be the focus of the govt of the day instead of bring distraction in the name of subsidy.the present security agents in the country is a big joke (political appointees) compared with other counterparts in the US and other advance nation in the world.i will suggest the govt learn from other countries especially the US on how to tackle this menace and also get the security agents that knows the business to defend the country.A stich in time saves nine.

Am very sure that whoever that must have done this shall be put to shame. We all know that Mushin/Fadeyi/Onipan axis are volatile environment, filled with hoodlums. My prayer to God is that every leader we have will be judged. The problem begins from the very top. They do not value us – the lives they ought to protect. These soldiers are even paid by tax payers – us the people they are shooting. We pay the government, this is just insane!

I think we need a rethink on all members of the armed forces who carry weapons. The new law should be “shoot not to kill unless its necessary”. With this kind of situation the soldier could have shot the hoodlums in various parts of their bodies that would not lead to loss of lives. Whatever happened to interrogation?. When you kill everyone how can you get facts from the offenders?. Aren't we supposed to be learning from other developed countries?.

why do these securiy agencies have to be moving about with guns anyway? the most senior officers should move with such armaments, we have alot of robbers in the arm forces these days, so restrictions should be place on those that carry arms in the military/police. that i think would reduce the reckless killing of innocent persons

Unfortunately everyone is tensed up under GEJ's dictatorship; and in particular for someone who travels abroad, he may have forgotten that he had arrived back in the jungle. May God give us a leader, who will prefer to work for his pay, rather than sit on top of Nigeria's money, dishing out recklessly, corrupting anyone who cares to dance to his tunes. This is not the first time soldiers will open fire on armless civilians and police have the gots to deny what hundreds of eyewthness are conforming and bearing withness to. right to take the life of another man. Section 33(1) of the says that this right can only be denied to a person who as committed a crime that is proportionate to taking his life and only a Court of competent jurisdiction can pass a death sentence on such a one. Genesis chapter 9 vs 6 also states that anybody who kills another will surely be killed. I think its high time the executive governor of Lagos state send this guys back to the barracks. In another you say “Government should not leave any stone unturn in investigating this incident in order to deter other tregger-happy security men from doing thesame in future”.

mr shadow, if you have nothing remotely useful to say or do in relation to seeking justice over the murder of the young man, then shut your mouth. If you are not part of the solution, then you must be part of the problem.

this is so sad...we may never hear the outcome of the investigation. It will require a determined will to try and press the matter. Truly, the State Government has an urgent duty here, and we must not leave it to them alone. The press too can ask questions from the chain of command that controls OP MESA.. Can anyone confirm if OP MESA is a creation of the State Government as part of its strategy to curb crime? It is the will of God that the living should demand justice.

Only Almighty God can save the innocent souls in this country. The killing of people by the law enforcer is too much.

It is unfair and injustice to kill an innocent man. Anyway the deed is done. But, unless you do the right thing you shall likewise die. Better is it to not allow such Gorillas in civilians camp again

May the soul of the poor man rest in peace, may God Almighty give solace to the family he left behind, the Mum, siblings and the young wife, and may the King of Kings give all those involved in his death a taste of their own deed in Jesus Mighty Name.They won't go unpunished.

It's hard to belief. No matter the circumstance, it's unprofessional to use a life bullet on an unarmed civillian. I have read some poeple's comment that late mr EHINDERO must have argued with them,and so they are justified to kill him. such reason is senseless and stupid (ss). Pray it does not happen to you.The government must please, find out the canibal that pulled the triger for justice to be done. or else we all are not save. R. I P.

My OPINION now is that NIGERIANS now should start a mass VOICE and PUBLIC PROTEST REVOLUTION against all unjust killings by ARMY, POLICE, NAVY, AIRFORCE AND SECURITY AGENCY, we must all come with a voice to protest the killing of NIYI EHINDERO so that the Government will be awaken to this barbaric incident... Government need to investigate who did this. that's the next step, This country is something else. WHICH WAY NIGERIA WHICH WAY WE GO authority, is when they come in contact with unarmed civilians. When they were sent to help fish out boko haram, you see them run away from battle. Their image has not changed much from over the years, that is why they earned the nickname – vandals.

We are all aware we are living in a backward society, where there is nothing called JUSTICE. So, whenever we have an encounter with all these salary earner thugs in uniform we must be very careful, now Mr Ehindero is killed and am sure nothing will come out of the enquiry. My advice BE Careful of Govt Hoodlums. May Niyi Ehindero's soul RIP.

The soldier in question should be sanction accordingly. the matter should be swept under the carpet. lagos state gov. should pursue the case to the logical end. it is unfortunate to loose a promising young man of that calibre.

OP MESA has been known to be used to settle personal disputes in thE past, we have never heard that thEy have ever averted any crime successfully, they use violence and threat to to subdue the voice of people, they have been killing people in the past, and I can bet that its a northerner that shot cause those people don't value lifes at all.
