Gunmen kill four soldiers, four policemen in Bayelsa

March 2, 2012 by Mike Odiegwu, Yenagoa 94 Comments

GUNMEN on Thursday unleashed terror on security operatives in Bayelsa State, killing four soldiers and four policemen at different points along the state's waterways.

Among the killed soldiers was a Lieutenant-Colonel.

The attack on the security operatives came barely a few hours after explosives suspected to be dynamites were detonated at two different locations in Yenagoa, the state capital.

Two oil pipelines belonging to the Nigerian Agip Oil Company were also attacked by yet unknown persons in the gale of violence unleashed on the state.

Our correspondent gathered that unidentified gunmen operating on three speedboats attacked four soldiers attached to the Joint Task Force, codenamed Operation Pulo Shield, in the Niger Delta region.

A security source said the soldiers were waylaid by the bandits between Brass and Ogbia waterways. Identities of the killed soldiers were not known as at the time of this report.

The source, who pleaded anonymity because of the sensitivity of the matter, explained that the soldiers who were heading for Ogbia waterside on a speedboat were accosted at a point popularly called Right Hand on the waterways.

“The gunmen in three speedboats accelerated towards the soldiers who were going to Ogbia waterside and opened fire on them. The soldiers were taken by surprise and they could not react quickly. After shooting the soldiers, the gunmen immediately fled the scene”, the source said.

He said the incident happened around 10am, adding that the shooting created panic in the area.

While the dust raised by the killing of the soldiers had yet to settle, four marine policemen, in a separate attack, were shot dead by bandits who were suspected to be the same as those who murdered the soldiers.

The victims, our correspondent gathered, were attacked at a police post along the Nembe waterways.

A police source told our correspondent that the bandits disguised as travellers but on getting close to the checkpoint pulled out their guns and opened fire on the officers.

The source who said his name should not be mentioned because he was not authorised to speak on the matter added that after the incident four bodies of the victims were recovered from the water.

The incident, it was learnt, rattled the state police command, especially, the new Commissioner of Police, Mr. Chris Olakpe, who has been commended by his superiors for the peaceful conduct of the February 11 governorship election in the state.

When our correspondent visited the command, Olakpe was said not to be in a mood to talk. But the Police Public Relations Officer in the state, Mr. Egoavoen Emokpai, confirmed the development and said soldiers and police officers were combing the areas for the culprits.

But the Media Coordinator, JTF, Lt. Col. Timothy Anthigha, said information regarding the killing of the soldiers was still sketchy.

“There are unconfirmed reports about an armed attack on a passenger boat which was carrying some military personnel this morning. The attack is suspected to have been carried out by some unknown gunmen. We don’t have any information on any casualty and we don’t have any information on where the passengers are. We are awaiting information from the unit closest to the scene of the incident,” Anthigha said.

But a source at the State Security Service confirmed the report to our correspondent and said a lieutenant colonel was among the four soldiers killed in the passenger boat.

He also told our correspondent that unknown bandits attacked two pipelines belonging to Agip at Ogolobiri in Brass Local Government Area and Tundaba in Southern Ijaw Local Government Area of the state on Wednesday.

“We are suspecting that the attack on the soldiers was carried out by those dealing in illegal oil bunkering. The lieutenant-colonel who is a commanding officer of JTF has been tough on illegal oil business going on in the region. He must have been killed because of his toughness”, the source said.

Meanwhile, the explosives which were detonated in Yenagoa on Wednesday night caused panic around Opolo and Customs roads.

No casualty was recorded in the two separate blasts.

The first explosion was said to have occurred in Opolo around 12.45am. The scene is close to Diete Koki Memorial Hospital and not far from the Headquarters of JTF in the state.

Our correspondent gathered that the explosive was thrown close to a transformer and that the impact affected the security building of the hospital.

Our correspondent who visited the area observed that part of the roof of the security building was damaged by the explosion just as it drilled a hole on the concreted floor.

One of the workers in the hospital, who identified himself simply as Ishmaila said the building was shaken by the explosion, adding that security operatives inspected the area on Thursday morning.

The Opolo blast came shortly after another explosion rattled the residents of Customs Road at about 9.30pm.

It was gathered that an unknown person on a speeding motorcycle threw the dynamite.

Olakpe, who spoke to our correspondent shortly after the explosion, said the explosions were the handiwork of mischief makers who were on a mission to seek attention.

He said people should disregard the incident and go about their normal business. He vowed to unmask the identities of the attackers.

Blowing of pipelines is a foolish way to make government listen to them and respond to their grievances. This is because they are adding to the pollution of the waters which oil exploration activities had already polluted. Whoever they are, MEND or any other group, they are behaving like the boko haram sect that have changed their targets to schools many of which have been raised and are still being raised down daily. The fact that a man has a boil on his nose, does not mean he should cut off his nose when only the boil should be removed. These renewed attacks in the Niger Delta calls for caution. The security forces should descend heavily on them for the death of their men. Enough is enough of these senseless killings. The nation is bigger than these idiots.

Violence has always been in the world, wise leaders look for solution to it, have you heard of first and second world war? I know people like you will think it is a sign of end time were you to be alive, have you heard of the Black Plague where over 10 million people died? have read the story of apartheid in South Africa? Imagine if Mandela had said its a sign of end time? Why cant we as Christian reason properly? we have systemic and leadership failure you are calling it a sign of end time?

Born to rule mentality of the northerners is what gave rise to violence in the north when the reigns of power shifted to the minority south-south. Similar situation is what we have now in Bayelsa state, because PDP must rule at all cost even when they have the worst candidate. Sylva the amnesty initiator as he claims is now no more on seat and his thugs are back.I bet he knows them. But PDP is the chief culprit in this regard. Mass turn-out was very poor during accreditation exercise for Bayelsa guber, yet they had a good cut, and how did other parties and contestants suddenly shut down their campaigns 24hrs to the election in support of PDP. "We will win" as they said. The north has vowed to make the polity ungovernable for Jonathan, now probably, some persons are trying equally to make the state ungovernable for Dickson. Goodluck! Nigerians

Just few days ago, the president spoke about his party being the biggest in Africa in their meeting. i have never heard this so called biggest party coming out with a blueprint advising the president on how to solve the security challenges of the country, rather each time they meet, their agenda centre at sharing political offices, zoning of political offices, winning all bye-elections and so on, really i might be wrong, because i hadly pay attention to any political party issues. i am more concern with national issues. If the president own state is being bomb, then where do we run to from south-south? probably to east or west.

The largest PARTY in Africa should please give Nigerians security, guaranttee lives and properties of every one,irrespective of tribe, religion affiliation and region.

we lost officers of the army and police again to group of terrorists probably not boko haram this time.SHOULD WE CONTINUE LIKE THIS AS NATION?

• Anthony N Z Sani March 2, 2012 at 8:35 am

I am very saddened to hear that some bandits have killed some soldiers and police in water ways of Niger Delta. This is amid explosions by Boko Haram that have been directed at the nation's security agents, as if their grievances are not with the state but with the security agents who are not more than cannon fodders for the state. This is most unfair.

I have also observed outcries by people in conflict areas like Niger Delta, Maiduguri, Jos and Adamawa state are often against activities of the security agents. But the security agents are merely doing their assigned tasks and responsibilities of trying to secure lives and properties. Inconveniences associated with their checks are natural concomitant of such actions by security which Nigerians do not seem to like. But unbridled liberty and freedom and security during crises cannot be bedside partners. Nigerians simply cannot eat their cake and still have it.

Nigeria is a place where everything is possible. Nigerians all over the country are used as experiment. life does not matter to the rulers of the nation. The worst death is been hacked down helplessly for no making of your. Behold you must act now to save yourself.

Gosh! Why are they killing security personnels now? Government should save police from extinction. Meanwhile, may their souls rest in peace and their families and relatives, good heart to bear this terrible loss. That is my concern for Nigerian and God bless president Jonathan Goodluck and we all.

Lord save us & protect us, because killings of innocent souls in Nigeria doesn't seems to be of any concern to our leaders.

the nation really need God at this time i suggest the major people i mean the House of rep and those in the ream of affairs including the president should try i sacrifice themselves and use sometime to seek God's face because this is an indication that they are not capable of doing it alone but i believe God can really make us work in Nigeria hmm! What I said sometime ago was that the civilians should be well equipped to police de police but uptill now, no government has carried out this simple suggestion. Must we fold our hands looking another direction while Boko haram continues to bomb us?

The President should wake up- Nigeria need ACTION President and not promising One-these set of people cannot be stronger than Nigeria...."we will get to the root of it"...the perpetrators would be brot to book".... we are doing everything to tackle the problem"... all thes stories, for how long????????????? Imagine the pains on the related families of the slained officers. This is very bad. If Govt refuse to wake up, i pray Aso rock would not be bombed one day by BH.

The only solution which Lagos state is still saying, is a revert to true fiscal federalism, state police and general resource control. Anything other than these, would amount to a total waste of time, lives and property. I am crying for my fatherland.

What those jobless Almigiries styling themselves as Boko Haram need are job placements(opportunities). This is where the senate should come in quickly to ensure there are enabling laws granting every locality in Nigeria the rights to contribute certain amount of money as tax to the center. Local government should create jobs for their peoples.

This is sad commentary whichever we look at it. A situation where soldiers are scared to wear the green, white and green colors is terrible. why now?
