A teacher in Usi-Ekiti in Ido-Osi Local Government Area of Ekiti State has hacked her husband to death.

It was gathered that the suspect, Mrs. Rafatu Agboola, killed her husband, Akeem Agboola, who was asleep with a machete and reported herself to the police in Usi-Ekiti immediately.

The Commissioner of Police in the state, Mr. Sotonye Wakama, confirmed the incident.

He said the woman was brought to the police headquarters on Wednesday.

The Police Public Relations Officer in the state, Mr. Victor Babayemi, said the police had begun an investigation into the case.

He said the suspect would be charged to court as soon as investigation was concluded.

Our correspondent learnt that the husband was a physics teacher at a secondary school at Eda-Oniyo in Ilejemeje Local Government Area until his death at about 3 am on June 12.

A nurse in a hospital in the state, however, claimed that the lady had a mental problem.

When journalists visited the home of the couple, a four-bedroom apartment on Ayeoro Road in Usi, the house was found locked but the louver blades of the window to the husband's bedroom were slightly open.

A peep into the bedroom showed that the mattress on the bed was soaked with blood and some blood was seen on the floor of the room, while a pungent smell had started coming out of the room.

Neighbours of the couple said that the wife and the husband were quiet and easy going.

Colleagues of the suspect at the school stated that Rafatu was an easy going person.

They said that the marriage, which took place in 2009, was yet to be blessed with a child.
