Two policemen attached to Oko-Oba Police Station were killed during a gun battle with a robbery gang on Monday in new Oko-Oba area of Lagos after the robbers opened fire on a group of policemen on patrol.

The robbers, who were said to be between 10 and 12 in number, reportedly killed the policemen around 2am.

PUNCH Metro learnt that one of the policemen was an assistant superintendent of police, identified only as Niyi while the other was an inspector.

According to reliable sources, the patrol team was on its way to attend to a distress call when the bandits who were in three different vehicles, opened fire at Pay-in Junction near Olaniyi Street.

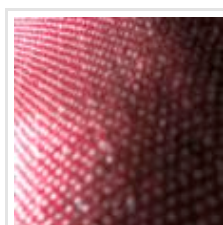

The robbers were said to have used a Hilux pick-up and two Toyota Sienna cars.

It was learnt that the slain policemen took cover behind the patrol van and shot back but the robbers had an upper hand and riddled the policemen with bullets while a sergeant and corporal managed to escape from the scene.

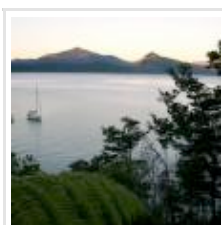

It was learnt that when other policemen arrived the scene, the robbers had already escaped.

Spokesperson for the state police command, Ngozi Braide, could not be reached for comment.

“According to reliable sources, the patrol team was on its way to attend to a distress call” I can bet 1m that they were not on any way to any distress call otherwise they would have been fully armed and not just 1vehicle.

The incidence happened close to my place that night. It was scary. The firepower was terrible and superior and was mainly one-wayed.
RIP to the gallant fallen officers.

This woman called Ngozi has a bad PR. She is the woman who does not respond well to Journalist questions. In Zimbabwean Shona language, Ngozi is evil spirit.
