The suicide bomber who killed eight Catholic worshippers in Kaduna on Sunday drove into the church as worshippers knelt praying and the priest was serving the Holy Communion, eyewitnesses and survivors said.

The bombing, which happened at the St. Ritas Catholic Church, Ungwan Yero, Malali, Kaduna State, also left 100 injured. However, seven persons were reportedly killed in the reprisals that followed the blast.

A victim, Jacinta Oko, said, “We just heard the loud sound of the bomb blast when we were preparing to take Holy Communion. Before I knew what was happening, I found myself on the ground. I can say that so many people died because it affected the side where the choir members were sitting.”

A 30-year-old mother of four, Veronica Johnson, who also survived the bombing, confirmed that they were in the middle of the service when the suicide bomber hit the church. Johnson, spoke at the bedside of her two children-victims at the St. Gerard Catholic Hospital.

She said, “We were in the church, and it was during the consecration when everybody was kneeling down and praying. All of a sudden, we heard the deafening sound of the bomb.

“The bomb went off near where the choristers were sitting. So many people died, and so many people were injured. I saw some people lying down flat within the church premises.

“All of my four children were in the church when the thing happened, but my husband was not in the church. They all sustained injuries. One is just four months old.”

Another survivor, Ishaku James, said when the suicide bomber attempted to enter the church, he was prevented and he (bomber) reversed and rammed into the church through the fence.

He said, “There are many dead and injured people who were taken to Garkuwa Hospital, Saint Gerald Catholic Hospital, Army 44 Reference Hospital and Barau Dikko Specialist Hospital.

“The suicide bomber used a Honda CRV SUV. The church is called Saint Rita’s Catholic Church, Ungwan Yero, Malali. The bomb blast happened at about 8.30am when the Parish Priest was blessing the sacrament.

“Even if there were security men, they couldn’t have stopped the bomber because he came driving with a force and crashed through the fence of the church, and not through the gate of the church. The car used by the bomber got burnt, and the body of the bomber was left dangling on the wall of the church.

“So many people died in the church as the bomber crashed through the wall and hit the area where the choristers were. It means that many of them must have been badly affected.”

Children who were in the Sunday school class were also affected. The fate of the Parish Priest Rev. Father Bonny Baza, who reportedly sustained a serious injury to his face, was not known as at press time on Sunday. His Honda SUV, with Kaduna State number plate AE979ZKW, which was damaged by the impact of the bomb explosion, was later seen parked at the St. Gerald Hospital.

The National Emergency Management Agency confirmed the number of deaths in the suicide attack as eight as at 1.45pm on Sunday.

The NEMA Public Relations Officer, Yushau Shuaib, told one of our correspondents in Abuja that over 100 people had been confirmed injured, adding however that the number was inconclusive. He said that the agency's personnel in Kaduna and other stakeholders collaborated in the rescue efforts at the blast scene.

“After the explosion at the worship centre, NEMA rescuers in collaboration with other stakeholders have so far confirmed eight dead and over 100 people injured. This figure was arrived at 1.45pm after inspection,” Shuaib stated.

Dead and wounded

At the Garkuwan Hospital along Sultan Road, one person was confirmed brought-in-dead while the Barau Specialist Hospital had recorded about four deaths as at 4pm. Three bodies were also deposited at the 44 Army Reference Hospital, all in Kaduna metropolis.

Archbishop of the Kaduna Catholic Diocese, Bishop Mathew Man'oso Ndagoso, who was at the St. Gerard Catholic Hospital, enjoined Christian youths, especially Catholics, to shun violence. He urged them not to embark on reprisals. He noted with sadness that children were mostly affected in the attack.

Reprisal killings

But the reports that came in after the attacks showed that the youths did not heed the priest's counsel. Eyewitness claimed that there were reprisals by youths believed to be Christians after the attack. Eyewitnesses also claimed that six persons, including two okada riders, were killed during the reprisals.

An AFP correspondent reported that he witnessed a man being burnt alive in the reprisal by a mob believed to be Christians. The correspondent also reported claims of clashes between some Christians and Muslims.

Although there were reports of a partial curfew imposed on the area as a result of the attack and the reprisals, this could not be confirmed as press time.

The state Commissioner of Police, Olufemi Addenaike, who was at the scene of the incident, appealed for calm. He said security operatives were on top of the situation.

He added that men of the Nigerian Army and the Nigeria Police Force had been deployed in various locations in the Kaduna metropolis to maintain law and order.

“I cannot confirm the number of casualties as most of them, including the remains of the bomber, have been taken to various health centres in the metropolis for attention,” he said.

No reprisals – KASG

As the evening wore on, the Kaduna State Government moved to reassure residents of the city that they were safe and that there were no reprisals.

The Senior Special Assistant (Media) to Governor Patrick Yakowa, Mr. Reuben Buhari, said that anyone caught spreading such false information would be made to face the full wrath of the law.

He said, “The Kaduna State Government condemns the attack on innocent people at the worship place today. It was inhuman, barbaric and uncalled for. We are appealing to the good people of the state to refrain from carrying out reprisals,” Reuben said in a statement.

“In particular, we want to urge the people to completely disregard the rumour making the rounds that there are reprisals in some parts of the state following today’s(Sunday) attack on the church. It is completely false. There is nothing like that going on in any part of the state.”

Jonathan blasts terrorists

Meanwhile, President Goodluck Jonathan has condemned the Sunday incident, saying it has shown that those behind the attacks in parts of the country do not mean well for Nigeria.

Jonathan made the submission in a statement by his Special Adviser on Media and Publicity, Dr. Reuben Abati.

The statement noted that the President was extremely saddened by the explosion. He described it as “barbaric, cruel and uncalled for.”

“It is obvious that these people do not mean well for Nigeria and its unity and development,” he said.

The President, however, assured that the nation would not give in to the “forces of terror and retardation”.

Jonathan also commiserated with the Catholic Church, family and friends of the victims of the bombing, assuring them of government’s resolve to deal with the threat of terrorism .

Although no group has claimed responsibility for the Sunday bombing, an Islamic sect, Boko Haram, had taken responsibility for three suicide attacks on churches in Kaduna State.

Boko Haram’s insurgency in northern and central Nigeria has led to more than 2,800 deaths since 2009.

Haba, what do you want Jonathan to do. Even if Jonathan is a policeman or a soldier he cannot be everywhere at all time. Please the security of other is responsibility of all of us. Apportion blame on Jonathan for any single attack in Nigeria has become a culture. Remember there is terrorism in India, indonesia even in the USA but it's not an excuse in Nigeria. Please Uba let join hand together and defeat this common enemy.

Shame on you Opeyemi for such a statement. when last did you hear of persistent terrorism attack in the US since September 11 2001..... If these people were smart enough to hit his family, do you think he wouldnt have found a solution to this? or are they Spirits? they are beings that live amongst us.....We have heard all sorts of news about them capturing BH sect leaders...are they saying these leaders have not given any concrete information or the tiniest lead on breaking their bonds? All we hear is “go”...we never hear “come”.....i say and say again.., resilience has a breaking point,,when the people of Nigeria are pushed to the wall, the govt wont be able to accept the reaction...not even the so called “Labour Party” will be able to handle its outcome...

Opeyemi,,

The last time I checked, Jonathan is the president of 160 million Nigeria. He appoints police Army and other security chiefs. He can do many things such as,

1. Discourage such acts by turning the victims pain into gain (send all the victims on oversea treatment, payout huge sum to all families affected, re-build the churches ...etc..all the money to be deducted from that states allocation.....this way, govs will watch their states.

2. He can encourage the security and judiciary to set example by declaring every friday as terrorists execution day at Eagle square. All convicts and sponsors should be tied up and executed for treason. (like Saro Wiwa and Abacha).

3 Put ransom on peoples head (I mean real money and every suspect will be turned in)

4 Call for national conference and let all nigerians decide if they still want to live together...screw the oil revenue....”to your tents Oh Isreal”.

5 Dethrown some political and traditional rulers (Governors and Emirs)..like Abacha did

6. Make all mosques and church turn in video tape of their services to security agents and plant SSS in every worship place....to pick out radicals.

7, ETC

The bomb survivors should count themselves lucky that no Nigerian military patrol man died in the blast .

They would have come to pump hot leads/bullets into the scrambling survivors because ;

- 1) they are angry that their colleague have died in the blast and
- 2) the church members did not give them information about suicide bombers in Kaduna – as it happened recently in Maiduguri.

Foolish people.

guess Jonathan should have quickly rushed down to d church and begged ur brother suicide bomber not to ram his HONDA CRV on the walls of the church after the security agents have turned the bomber with a holy Rossy on his neck back.

malnourishment also impales reasoning hence i empathize and also sympathize with u over ur precarious situation. get well soon.

why? uba. must we apportion blame on Jonathan for every single act of evil? if Goodluck was to be at the venue of the scene, will he stand the way of the suicide bomber who penetrated the fence into the church? let's be objective in our comment here pls. let us rather come together and fight this common enemy of humanity than apportion blame on ourselves.

This is my conclusion in nigeria situation: – the problem in nigeria is neither political, religious nor tribal! It is spiritual, and it has its root in blood sucking vampires.

Suicide murderers as someone rightly called them are the most uncivilized people living in the face of the earth today. This kind of are decendants of the beasty nebukadenezzar of babylon. Sadam hussein paid suicide murderers from palestine $5,000 each to blow up themselves to kill isrealis. Muama ghadafi did same too.

But the current tactics used by this evil children of satan, is, brain wash the bomb carrier, dont let him know the vehicle has explosives packed in it, then instruct him or her to go pack the vehicle at their target, once he moves, brainwasher detonates the explosive with analog cell phone.

This people should know that making a bomb is as easy as abc in today's world. The process is online. The same way they kill others, they will also be killed.

Today we read in the news about another attack by the enemy of democracy and enemy of progress in Kaduna. The Nigerian military must and should do something about the insecurity in the country while the nation's political elite are busy looting the treasury with little or no concern for the masses. No government anywhere on the planet can continue to remain in power, be it military or civilian when the masses are not protected from coward Boko Haram, armed robbers, and threat of kidnappers. God's willing, one day Nigeria will be fed up and put an end to their own collective sufferings and put in place a real democratic government as it was done in Egypt.

This forum ought to be where good thinking Nigerians should be express, analyse issues bothering on our national unity and co-existence. But it's however blood congealing when i read some comments posted by some elements, i begin to ask myself when people cannot make constructive criticisms how then can they rule this country if they ask to do so. Uba, is saying Goodluck should resign. Did Abacha, IBB etc resign when they brought so much shame to this country and made us a laughing stcok among the commity of nations? The present security challenges we are facing today in Nigeria is as a result the previous government's inability to push Nigeria up the ladder of a great nation. It's sadly enough that Goodluck inherited a polarised polity. It's high time we called a spade a spade- The northerners are the problem this country is facing today. They have ruled the nation more than any other tribe and yet they have sworn to make the Goodluck led administration a mess. The northern political bloc, please I beg you people in the name of everything holy to leave Goodluck alone. Let's all join hands to making Nigeria a great nation and we all would be happy we did. Enough of the killing of Ibos, southerners and christians. You people are pushing us to the wall, and i tell if you continue pushing us this way until we get to the wall we wont have any other option than to push back at you. Rememember, war is nobody's friend, hence let us all avoid it as it wont serve anybody's interest. Long live Nigeria.

Reuben Buhari, Reuben Abati. All these special advisers in the name of Reuben and their mouths. mmmmmh hhh.....

Anyway, I think that our security people are trying their best and the FG should give them all the necessary supports by prosecuting and convicting anybody involved in this act of wickedness, be they in high or low places. The FG needs to use some people to set an example to show the sponsors what awaits them anytime they are caught. Terrorism must also be made to attract life imprisonment.

Furthermore, the NASS needs to fast-track the ongoing Constitution Review(CR) and complete the required amendment as quickly as possible. This is the best time for them to decide whether we can have a Sovereign National Conference(SNC) or Resource Control(RC) or complete Division. We just need some new laws that will change the Status Qua in order to enhance and instill some discipline in Nigerians..

We need to dialogue and agree on what bases we must stay together and the NASS has to do justice to this CR, at least, to justify the outrageous allowances they collect from the FG.

While on it, I think that these attacks are getting just too much and maybe the FG should seek for some foreign assistance for now. There is no need to pretend that you are on top of the situation when actually you are under it while innocent people die everyday. Does not make sense to me.

God bless Nigeria

May the soul of the departed rest in peace. My condolences to the governor of Kaduna State and the families of the bereaved. Community members and leaders know the people that are responsible for this carnage and all other evils pervading our society. These people are not ghosts or some unseen spirits. I implore them in the name of everything that is good to overcome their fears and report these people to the media houses, the army and the police in that order. Government appears unable to deal with the menace of bokoharam and other acts of terrorism. Government does not have enough support from the people. The police cannot be effective unless we act as their ears and eyes. The terrorists have financial support from some powerful people among us. Bombs are not purchased with stones. The bomb factories are located where we live. There are credible Nigerians in every communities please let us give them all the information they need to bring this evil to an ignoble end. Nigerian leaders are not the ones suffering the casualties of terrorism and as long as their immediate families are not affected they will not do anything to end it. Only the poor masses know where the shoe pinches. It is not enough to condemn terrorism on the pages of News papers or through phone calls while they are hiding in their impregnable fortresses. How many times have we seen the President visiting the scenes of these crimes? We the people have the power to end terrorism and to end the evils destroying our land. Boko haram does not appear to have any religious undertone. They only want to set one religion against another. May the good Lord safe us from this evil. May the peace of God prevail everywhere.

Soso, you are not applying your common sense with your postings. Did you make any condemnation what a mosque was attacked sometimes ago? The perpetrators are trying to create divisions within society and you are falling for the trick.

all these war-comments that is going on here, in the internet, is a good example of how bitter nigerians are. the reason why there have not been any meaning ful repraisals is because the useless & devilish BH members are killing their brothers who are hausas but xtains& their fellow brothers northerns. we are tired abt the whole situation in nigeria. All the northern state governors must give account to the Almighty God of their failure to fish out those BH members in their states that are causing this mayhem. One day Nigeria will divide. That day is fast coming. The rich are bollomlly getting richer while the poor are degeneratinglly melting poorer.
