The people of Ikeshin village in Ota area of Ogun state have fled their residences after some hoodlums unleashed mayhem and killed one Alhaji Idowu Arinadegbo.

PUNCH Metro learnt that Arinodegbo was working on some plots of land he had bought in the area with some workers when the hoodlums ambushed them and began to shoot sporadically at them.

In the ensuing confusion, Arinodegbo was said to have been hit on the chest, while the others escaped with bullet wounds.

A resident of Onigbin, which is a neighbouring village, told Punch Metro, that the people in Ikeshin ran to them for safety as the gunshots increased.

The source, who pleaded anonymity, said, "On Saturday afternoon, there were sounds of gun shots and we all started panicking. We started seeing people scampering for safety. They came to take cover

"While in Church the following day, people went to search for Arinodegbo. They came back with his corpse."

He said the incident made many of the people who were living in the area to vacate their homes.

However, Mr. Nojeem Obileye, a chief and member of the Gbolaya family, a major land owner in the area, said the incident was the climax of a series of attack perpetrated by a traditional ruler in the area.

He said, "This all started in September 20, 2011. The oba and a surveyor started harassing everybody with thugs.

"The thugs are now powerful and they are now entering into other people's plot of land to cause trouble.

"That fateful Saturday, some people came to lay the foundation for their house. But unknown to them, the thugs had hidden in the bush. It was from there they started shooting the people. Some of the victims could not even see where the bullets were coming from.

"Unfortunately, Idowu Arinodegbo whom I was told bought about four acres of land was there to clear his land with some of his workers. The bullet hit him in the chest and he died. Some of the people there also sustained bullet injuries."

When contacted, Oba Matanmi denied the allegations.

He said, "I don't know anything about it, and I don't have any thugs. If there is any thug, they are not from me. For anything pertaining to land, I use courts.

"The people who are trying to implicate me are those who don't like my face and they are members of my family. The last time I was around that area in question was 30 years ago."

The Ogun State Police Public Relations Officer, Mr. Muiyiwa Adejobi, confirmed the incident.

He said the police went with the family to recover the corpse.

He said, "From what the police heard, the deceased went to his land on June 22. There was a report to the police that he was missing. The next day, his corpse was seen somewhere and later taken to the mortuary."

Adejobi said one Babalola Tajudeen had been arrested, adding that investigations were still on.

Omo oniles are menace to everyone in lagos and ogun state.They act as if they are above the law and also stronger than gov.The truth is they always have a bad end with a destroyed future handed over to their children and their unborn generations.Do not envy anything they temporarily enjoy now,because they won't be able to finish chewing the evil they greedily bite with their teeth.

True talk my Brother, enough of rubbish and same Police will collect money from this so called Baale and cover up the case. For someone to buy accres of Land and bringing workers to develop the place and the same Family he paid to then turn around to murder him call for thorough investigation. or they want to resell the Land to another person. God have mercy.
