Police recover robbers' corpses in Ogun

AUGUST 26, 2013 BY ENIOLA AKINKUOTU 2 COMMENTS

The Ogun State Police Command says it has recovered the corpses of two of the three armed robbers who fled a robbery scene after engaging policemen attached to the Odogbolu Division in a gun battle along Omu/Epe road in Odogbolu Local Government Area.

The police said in a statement on Sunday that policemen, who went in search of the fleeing robbers with some members of the Vigilante Service of Ogun State, recovered the corpses in a nearby bush on Thursday, a day after the gun duel.

The statement added that the corpses had been deposited at a mortuary in Ijebu Ode.

The Police Public Relations Officer, DSP Muyiwa Adejobi, said, "The command has put machinery in place to harness all available resources on ground to provide adequate security of lives and property for the general populace.

"The Commissioner of Police, Ogun State, Ikemefuna Okoye, appreciates the people of the state, particularly the members of the Vigilante Service of Ogun State for their support in achieving the effective policing of Ogun State.

"In the same vein, the command will always work with other security agencies in the state to get rid of hoodlums."
