

Virus Disease in Nigeria is now 18. The 18th confirmed case is the sister of the late Port Harcourt doctor. The total number of cases successfully managed and discharged is now eight.

"The last case to be discharged, the first secondary contact to be diagnosed and a spouse of a primary contact of the index case, went home from the isolation ward in Lagos yesterday (Tuesday). The 9th survivor is the ECOWAS Commission official, who jumped surveillance in Lagos and travelled to Port Harcourt, where he infected the doctor

28 killed, mosques torched in fresh Wukari attack

Jude Owuamanam, Jos

TWENTY-eight people were killed while 10 houses and two mosques were torched in a fresh attack in Wukari town of Taraba State on Wednesday.

Our correspondent gathered that trouble started when women and children were protesting against alleged extra-judicial killings by soldiers deployed to keep peace in the area following protracted communal clashes in the community.

Our correspondent gathered that the protest occurred on Wednesday morning amid fresh fighting between Jukuns and some Fulani gunmen.

Our correspondent learnt that 28 people were killed in the fresh onslaught, but the police put the casualty figure at six, adding that 10 others were injured.

The Police Public Relations Officer, Mrs. Joseph Kwaji, a DSP, told our correspondent on the telephone on Wednesday that 10 houses were also burnt, including two mosques.

According to him, the police have restored normalcy in the area.

"I can confirm to you that only six people were killed, 10 others injured and 10 houses burnt, which included two mosques.

He added, "The tension in the town arose from a peaceful protest by some women and youths in the area. We have also put the situation under control. The protesters said they wanted soldiers removed from the area."

to safeguard privacy for Williams and his family. When used properly and not leaked to the media or revealed due to litigation, Trusts allow you to avoid probate court and keep your affairs private.

Technically, the real estate, the children's Trust Funds and any life insurance will not form part of Robin Williams' Estate. We would also expect that his ongoing royalties, earnings from new deals over his image and likeness, and future releases of his comedy material would be managed through his Estate, unless he had previously assigned those rights to another Trust or a corporate entity. These should add up to a significant value.

According to numbers compiled by ABC News, his movies grossed over $6 billion throughout his career, more than half of which came with Williams as the lead character.

Final Comments

Ex-Kogi commissioner dies in auto crash