The members of the Boko Haram sect have killed six civilians in an ambush on a commercial vehicle in Borno State.

The Acting Director, Army Public Relations, Col. Sani Usman, said in a statement on Monday that the 7 Shares
ians were killed when the insurgents who were looking for food attacked troops escorting commercial icles from Damboa to Maiduguri at Sanda.

said that three soldiers were also injured in the ambush and were evacuated to Maiduguri.

nan said that the military had sent a patrol team to the area to pursue the insurgents.

Acting Army spokesman stressed that the troops would not relent until those behind the attack were sted or killed.

said that the military would not allow the ugly incident to disrupt the peace and security of commuters ig the route and others reopened in the North-East.

nan, who denied the reported terrorists attack on Chibok community, said that two persons were dered by suspected insurgents looking for food at Kwamjilari near the Sambisa Forest, about 30 metres from Chibok.

He said that it was not true that the victims were killed outside a church in the area.

According to Usman, the people of the affected village were all moved to the Internally Displaced Persons' camp in Chibok.
