

In the Lagos incident, the bus conductor lost his life in the multiple crashes involving the bus, two trucks and a van on the Oshodi-Isolo Road.

It was learnt that a policeman, who was controlling traffic after the first crash, was knocked down by another vehicle. He reportedly broke his leg.

PUNCH Metro gathered that the policeman and his colleagues, who came from the Ilesamaja Police Division, joined other emergency officials at the scene around 4am.

At the time, a truck, loaded with gravel, had collided with the van, which was loaded with jerrycans of vegetable oil.

The drivers of the two vehicles were said to have sustained injuries while their motor boys were trapped in the wreckage.