Gunmen on Thursday night killed a retired school principal, Mr Femi Ayeni, in Emure Ekiti, in the Emure Local Government Area of Ekiti State.

Sources said the deceased was killed about 10.30pm in his residence along Ise Road in the community.

The sources said the man was found in the pool of his blood.

A police source said in Ado Ekiti on Friday that the killers were suspected armed robbers that visited the house to rob but killed the victim in the process.

The police source said, “The retired principal was killed with a dane gun. His corpse had been deposited in the morgue at Emure General Hospital. The case is under investigation at the Emure Divisional Police headquarters”.

According to the source, the Commander of the Special Anti-Robbery Squad, Mr Marcus Ogundola, had led a team of operatives to the scene with a promise that the killers would be arrested.

The source said, “There are a lot of traces left behind by the killers that can easily facilitate their arrest. The SARS and other operatives have promised that they would work on that and soon, they will get to the root of the matter”.

The Police Public Relations Officer, Ekiti State Command, Mr Sunday Abutu, could not be reached as his mobile phone numbers were switched off.
