Three siblings have reportedly drowned in River Niger after their boat capsized while going home from school over coronavirus threat.

It was learnt that they were asked to go home on Monday by the school hierarchy following a directive by the state government that all schools should close as a measure to contain the spread of the pandemic.

Our correspondent learnt that they were the children of one Mr Chukwuemeka of Urum-Etiti in Anam, Anambra West Local Government Area of the state.

A source told our correspondent, “They were students of Community Secondary School, Atani, Ogbaru Local Government Area.

“They were on their way home from school at Ochuche, a riverine community in the same council area, when they met their untimely death.

“They were asked to leave for home because of the coronavirus pandemic. So on their way home they met their untimely death.”

The Public Relations Officer of the Nigeria Security and Civil Defence Corps in the state, Mr Edwin Okadigbo, confirmed the incident.

He said the students were declared missing on March 23.

Okadigbo said, “Following a distress call, the NSCDC Ogbaru divisional office, was alerted that three students of Community Secondary School, Atani, had drowned after their canoe capsized on River Niger. And they were declared missing.

“Preliminary investigation revealed the three students on their way to Ochuche in the Ogbaru LGA of Anambra State were children of one Mr Chukwuemeka of Urum-Etiti, Anam in Anambra West but residing in Ochuche.

“The cause of the incident was attributed to river turbulence, following a downpour.

“Two out of the five students that were in the canoe, however, survived.

“We are making efforts to recover the missing three.”

According to him, the pupils were paddling the boat when it capsized.

Meanwhile, the Igwe of Nnewi, Dr Kenneth Orizu 111, on Wednesday placed restrictions on visitors to his palace to help contain coronavirus spread.
