

Gunmen kill another resident in Imo

Chidiebube Okeoma, Owerri

FEAR gripped the people of Abba in the Mbaitoli Local Government Area of Imo State, on Wednesday, after some hoodlums killed a man identified as Fidelis Nnamdi.

The incident, which happened in the Ogwuaga area of the town, created panic.

A community leader and relative of the victim, Jude Owuamanam, told PUNCH Metro that the assailants struck around noon.

While he could not state the reason for the killing, Owuamanam said people in the community were living in fear.

He said, "Gunmen have just murdered our brother, Fidelis Nnamdi. He was shot dead at Ogwuaga Abba around noon. The reason for the assassination has not been ascertained."

The state police spokesperson, Micheal Abattam, confirmed the murder, adding that investigation was ongoing.
