

55-year-old man going to market found dead on Jigawa road

Ted Odogwu 7 April 2022

Kindly share this story: f t @ in

The lifeless body of a 55-year-old man, Isyaku Shuaibu, has been recovered by men of the Nigeria Security Civil Defence Corps in the Kiyawa Local Government Area of Jigawa State.

The state NSCDC Public Relations Officer, Adamu Shehu, in a statement on Wednesday, said the incident happened on Tuesday around 9.30am.

Shehu noted that a distress call was received by the command, prompting the deployment of a medical team to the scene of the incident.

“On arrival, the dead body of Shuaibu was recovered by the roadside on Kiyawa- Andaza, about two kilometres away from Andaza town.

“On preliminary examination at the scene, there was no sign of physical injuries or bruises. Thereafter, the body was conveyed to the General Hospital, Dutse, for post-mortem,” the statement added.

The deceased’s family was quoted to have said Shuaibu left home with the intention of going to Sara, a community market that operated every Tuesday.

The family said it was dumbfounded that his dead body was discovered by the roadside.

Read Also

- ▶ Lagos father smashes baby’s skull, burns house, blames evil spirits
- ▶ Court remands centenarian for allegedly plucking out teenager's eye
- ▶ Pastor’s baby killed as wife, female members fight over alleged affair with cleric

Shehu said the state Commandant, Mustapha Talba, had deployed officers to conduct thorough investigations in the area.

He urged residents not to panic, as efforts to unravel the circumstances that led to the death of the 55-year-old were ongoing.