

Motorist crushes hoodlum, colleague during tussle for money

Kindly share this story:

By Toni Ufoh and Blessing Chukwu

3rd August 2022

A yet-to-be-identified man has been found dead and another injured at Oshodi Oke, inward Gbagada, opposite the office of the Lagos State Traffic Management Authority, Oshodi, Lagos.

PUNCH Metro gathered that the two street urchins, on Tuesday, were fighting over money from bus drivers along the expressway when they were hit by a motorist.

An eyewitness, Olaniwura Afuju, told one of our correspondents that the men had unknowingly strayed towards the road, as they were knocked down by the oncoming vehicle.

Related News

Two die as Lagos hoodlums clash, loot shops

Lagos hoodlums hack NURTW boss at home, shoot him dead in hospital

Lagos officer killed by hoodlums'll not die in vain – CP

The Permanent Secretary, Lagos State Emergency Management Agency, Olufemi Oke-Osanyintolu, said one of the victims died on the spot.

“The agency’s paramedic team gave first aid to the other victim at the scene and the victim was later transported to the Gbagada General Hospital for further treatment,” he added.