

Worshipper, security guard slump, die in Ogun hospital

14th November 2023

| By Uthman Salami

A worshipper, identified as Sunday Balogun, reportedly slumped during a revival programme at the Light of Saviour Cherubim and Seraphim Church in Odogbolu, while another, a security operative at the Dangote Cement Plant in Ibese, Abubakar Yandako, also collapsed at a duty post in the cement factory.

PUNCH Metro gathered that the two separate incidents that occurred in the state on Friday subsequently led to the deaths of the two victims.

Balogun's brother, one Fesuga Olawumi, told the state police that he (Balogun), along with his uncle, was said to have been invited to the revival programme at the church in Odogbolu upon invitation by one Adeshina Banjo.

While the programme was going on, Balogun was said to have slumped and was reportedly dead while he was being immediately rushed to the hospital in the area for medical care.

The Ogun State Police Command said the Balogun family had been contacted about the incident, while Ogun State Police PRO, Omolola Odutola, said the bodies of the two victims have been deposited at the Ijebu-Ode General Hospital Morgue.