THE Bauchi State Police Command has arrested one Isyaku Babale for allegedly stabbing his brother to death.

In a statement by the spokesperson for the command, SP Ahmed Wakil, on Sunday, the incident happened at Anguwan Dawaki in Bauchi Metropolis.

Wakil stated that the altercation started when the younger brother asked his elder brother to stop taking cold patch liquid, popularly known as 'Sholi', in their room because of the unpleasant odour of the liquid.

"Both of them became furious with each other and began fighting. Shortly after mediation, the suspect ran and picked a sharp object, suspected to be a knife, and stabbed the victim in the stomach.

"Further investigations revealed that both men were always fighting using dangerous weapons," he added.

According to Wakil, the 30-year-old suspect was arrested following a report received by the Divisional Police Officer, Township Police Station, Bauchi.

He stated further that detectives from the division were drafted to the scene immediately.
