

Woman dies after fight with ex-husband in Ogun

UTHMAN SALAMI

A man identified simply as Muftau Adefalu has allegedly killed his ex-wife, Yetunde Olayiwole, in the Sango-Ota area of Ogun State.

The Ogun State Police informed our correspondent that the suspect had since been arrested and detained following the death of Olayiwole.

The spokesperson for the Command, Omolola Odutola, told Sunday PUNCH on Saturday evening that the incident occurred at about 8pm on Friday, November 1, 2024.

The 37-year-old suspect was believed to have had a misunderstanding with the woman, which resulted in a scuffle.

During the scuffle, Sunday PUNCH learnt that the victim immediately slumped and was later confirmed dead at the hospital she was taken to.

Odutola said, "The man had a misunderstanding with his ex-wife, which resulted in a fight. She slumped during the scuffle and was immediately taken to a hospital for medical attention.

"She was later confirmed dead by a doctor on duty. The corpse has been deposited at the Ifo General Hospital morgue for autopsy. The suspect has been arrested and detained."

This incident comes days after a 39-year-old man, Olusegun Tinubu, was allegedly stabbed to death by his wife, Comfort Tinubu, in Ibadan, Oyo State.

The suspect has since been detained, with the state police command confirming that it had begun an investigation into the incident.

Stakeholders oppose diversion of Lagos-Calabar highway

OLUFEMI ADEDIRAN

INVESTORS, stakeholders, and residents of Okun Ajah community have disagreed with the Minister of Works, David Umahi over the diversion of the Lagos-Calabar expressway.

Umahi while briefing members of the House of Representatives committee and some stakeholders at Eleko community, we sat down with HiTech and we decided to divert the coastal road".

But, the declaration from the minister generated uproar from stakeholders, who shouted that "there is no marine cable in Okun Ajah".

They insisted that the submarine cables were in Okun Mopo, which according to them is about seven kilometres away.

... ..