Four people, including a soldier, were reportedly killed by suspected cultists at North Bank, a suburb of Makurdi, the capital city of Benue State, Friday night.

Clashes among rival cult members have been on the increase around the North Bank area in the past few weeks.

Eyewitness accounts disclosed that those killed on Friday night (the two young men) were not cultists but victims of cultists who were on the rampage.

Confirming the incident, Chairman of the Vigilante Group known as Operation Shara in the North Bank, Nura Umar, said that four people, including a soldier, were killed in separate attacks on Thursday and Friday night.

Umar said, “These cultists wreaked havoc yesterday night (Friday) around 10-11pm; a soldier and two boys were killed.

“It happened around the BIPC. Those boys (deceased) were not cultists. Those who shot them were suspected to be cultists.
