These Robbers Killed A Police Sergeant, Thinking He Was After Them

OLUMIDE BANJO

The police at Ajegunle have arrested five members of a robbery gang which killed a police sergeant near Stadium Bus Stop, Surulere, Lagos.

P.M. News gathered that the suspects were arrested at Ajegunle during a foiled robbery operation.

The suspects allegedly confessed killing the sergeant by mistake near Stadium Bus Stop, thinking that he was pursuing them.

The suspects who have been charged for murder and robbery, were identified as Wisdom Agbohale, 26, Samuel Peter, Emmanuel Odofo and Stanley Ibibolu.

During interrogation, the suspects allegedly confessed to operating in Ajegunle, Idumota, Surulere, Anthony Village, Oyingbo, Ojuelegba, Isolo and Ijora Badiya.

The gang, P.M. News gathered, specialises in snatching GSM phones, handbags and attacking residents.

Items recovered from them include a gun and knives.

In a similar development, anti-robbery policemen from the station also arrested three notorious car thieves in the area.

The suspects were identified as Austin Moses, 22, Abdulkareem Abdullahi, 27 and Fatai Yusuf, 29.

They were arrested at Coker Junction, Ajegunle with stolen handsets and a car.

The leader of the gang, Abdulkareem Abdulahi confessed that the gang usually operates between Ijora, Orile, Isolo and Ajegunle.

Sometimes, the suspects operate as one-chance robbers by robbing commuters of their belongings, a detective at the station told P.M. News.

He confirmed that the suspects had been charged to court for armed robbery.
